

CHICAGO AREA DESIGNER OPENS NEW RETAIL STORE DEDICATED TO ECCLECTIC DÉCOR ITEMS FOR HOME AND SELF

LINCOLNSHIRE, Ill. (March 9, 2005) – K-Haus will launch its first retail store in early May 2005, providing Chicago area residents with a new resource for home design and décor.

Located at 255 B Parkway Dr. in Lincolnshire, just south of the intersection of Routes 22 and 21, the store will offer consumers hard-to-find, eclectic design and décor items for home and self. Included in the store's offering will be original artwork from up and coming artists, fine furnishings, custom designed furniture and "found items" from estate sales and antique fairs. In addition, K-Haus will serve as home to the K-Haus design team, a talented group of professionals specializing in interior design, installation and custom furniture design services.

"K-Haus lead designer Kiki Luthringshausen and the entire K-Haus team have assembled design elements from around the world that evoke a feeling of new possibilities for decorating the home and self," said Vincent Florack, co-owner of K-Haus. "Kiki has spent her entire career applying her innate sense of design to her client's needs, resulting in new spaces that reflect their lifestyles."

Luthringshausen's design expertise has been tapped by clients in Chicago, New York, Deer Valley and Hilton Head Island, to name a few. Her work has been profiled in numerous national publications and on WLS-TV and WMAQ-TV. She will be featured on an upcoming episode of HG-TV's "New Spaces."

"The K-Haus brand exudes a style and presence that renders each design created under the brand as subtly unusual, and often one of a kind," said Luthringshausen. "We have sourced product from across the country, and across the world."

In keeping with the mission to provide unique items for the home and self, K-Haus also offers an extensive collection of antique and artisan jewelry.
